

Too Hot For Tots! Newsletter

Our Mission

No one ever thinks an injury like this will happen to their child, but it can and does. Injuries like this can happen in a second but can change a child's life forever. The Too Hot for Tots! program aims to educate parents and caregivers of young children about preventable burn and scald injuries in the home thus reducing the social, emotional and economic burden on Canadian families and society.

The Too Hot for Tots! program provides family educators and fire fighters with translated resources and teaching plans to teach caregivers of children from 0-6 years of age about this common cause of childhood trauma.

Caregivers are often accused of lacking common sense, but what they lack is knowledge." – Frances MacDougall, RN

Heather's Story

Heather Beveridge is a medical social worker who has worked with burn survivors' and their families for the past 20 years.
